ACCA Exemptions

ACCA offers exemptions to students who have studied relevant accountancy qualifications prior to starting ACCA's accountancy qualifications.

Should I claim my exemptions?

Exemptions stop you from having to study the same topics that you have already been taught.

However, if you are thinking of claiming an ACCA exemption based on qualifications you gained years ago or if you have been working in a field other than accountancy for some time, you may need to take the exam.

Studying for the exam will allow you to refresh your knowledge and will ensure you are sufficiently prepared for the higher level papers, which go into topics in greater depth.

How to claim exemptions

- You must send official proof of any qualifications, such as academic transcripts or award certificates, along with your registration form.
- Online print outs of academic transcripts are not acceptable. Only copies of official documentation, signed and stamped by the awarding body, can be accepted.
- Any documents not in English must be officially translated.

ACCA PER guidance and resources

All ACCA students are required to complete their exams, take the Professional Ethics module and complete the PER (Practical Experience Requirement) before they can become an ACCA member.

Students can gain their practical experience before, during or after they complete their exams. The PER provides a structure for them to follow by setting a range of performance objectives. The performance objectives ensure they gain the experience to demonstrate that they have the abilities required to become a member.

The performance objectives are closely linked to the exam syllabus and we recommend that students co-ordinate their study and practical experience achievement to gain the most from both.

For more information, visit: <http://www.accaglobal.com/gb/en/learning-provider/resources-tuition/per-guidance-resources.html>

Ethics Module

- Students are required to complete the Professional Ethics module as part of their ethical development. The module gives students exposure to a range of ethical perspectives and includes several self-tests which require them to reflect on their own ethical behaviour.
- It is recommended that students take the Professional Ethics module before attempting any exams at Strategic Professional, but as close as you can to the completion your Applied Skills examinations.
- Although students can take the module at their own convenience, it must be completed before they apply for ACCA membership.

For more information, visit: <http://www.accaglobal.com/gb/en/help/faq-ethics.html>

Exam Progression rules

There are four exam cycles a year.

Students will still be allowed to take a maximum of 4 exams during each exam cycle across a maximum of 8 distinct exams over the course of a calendar year.

EXAM CYCLES

The exam cycles are:

- March session: 1 Jan - 31 March
- June session: 1 April - 30 Jun
- September session: 1 July - 30 September
- December session: 1 Oct - 31 December

Papers must be taken in line with the following module order, however you can attempt the papers within each module in any order:

- Knowledge Skills (AB, MA, FA) – available by computer-based exam (CBE) or paper-based format in selected markets
- Applied Skills (LW, PM, TX, FR, AA, FM) – all available by paper-based format with F4 English and F4 Global also available by CBE
- Strategic Professional (Essentials: SBL, SBR and Options: AFM, APM, ATX, AAA) – available by paper-based format

If your status allows you to enter for papers across modules, please remember that you must complete the papers in order and enter for outstanding papers in your current module if you wish to enter to sit papers in the next module.
